To our valued suppliers

RE: COVID-19 Supplier Communication

Milliken is currently monitoring and evaluating all potential impacts to our global supply chain regarding the continued escalation of the COVID-19 virus. Our primary focus of this communication is to ensure that any and all current and potential supply disruptions you may encounter are communicated in an expedited manner to your appropriate procurement and supply chain contacts.

In addition, we also ask that your organization communicate to your Milliken contact(s) the current contingency plans that your company has instituted to ensure continuity of supply for the duration of this event.

We appreciate the dynamic nature of the current COVID virus situation and that the impacts are evolving daily. Our goal is to ensure business continuity to our customers throughout this event and to achieve this goal we will need constant and transparent communication from our supply partners.

Milliken appreciates your support in this endeavor.
